

VCRs have never posed a problem to Video/DVD sales, so I see no need for regulation on HDTV copy protection. It's pointless anyway. Copy protection gets defeated almost immediately after being released.